Nationals Trim Mackmen in Double Bill---First Time in History of Game

1/3 Off on All Straw Hats and Panamas

It's just the moment for you to think about the season's second straw hat-particularly if your old one's looking frayed or dingy from the effects of summer wear. It doesn't pay to spend money and time at the cleaner's. Better buy anew at a price away under our early figures.

Sennits, Splits, Bangkoks, and Panamas, all now reduced. This includes the newest fancy braid, high crown, narrow brim effects.

Griffmen Win Double-header Behind Boehling and Johnson Before One of the Largest Crowds of the Season—Scores, 4 to 3 and 2 to 1.

BY WILLIAM PEET.

Both ends of a double-header against the world's champions tumbled into the Griffithian dragnet before a monster crowd here yesterday.

The scores were 4 to 3 and 2 to 1.

Just put down a little bet on the Nationals to pull off the unexpected once in a while. Not even the most rabid rooter expected a twin victory. Griffith simply refused to go fifty-fifty with Connie Mack, and the vast throng nearly went into hysterics when McBride threw out Stuffy McInnes in the ninth inning of the final frolic, ending the fes-

The Old Fox in refusing to book a double-header here tomorrow at the request of Connie Mack and Ban Johnson, evidently knew what he was about. He played his cards well, for the travel-stained champs were about as full of life yesterday as a flock of mummies.

Joe Boehling twirled the first game and allowed three hits. Walter Johnson, the well-known bridegroom, celebrated his few remaining hours of freedom by pitching the second game and displaying a lot of old-time speed and control. Four hits was all Johnson allowed, and but for an error of judgment the enemy would not have scored.

Mack used up four perfectly good young pitchers. Joe Bush, in the curtain raiser, was reached for the winning run, while Weldon Wyckoff was hit hard enough in the third inning of the nightcap for enough chalk marks to bring home the bacon.

The heat and train journey caused Jack Barry and Rube Oldring to capitulate during the second game, youngsters filling their places. During the four hours or more of play, while the crowd sweltered, Germany Schaefer and Nick Altrock stuck to their tasks on the coaching lines, with never a sign of let up.

Good, old-fashioned rooting helped mightily, for the Nationals have been kicked about on foreign soil so many days that it seemed good to be back among the home folks once more. This had a lot to do with yesterday's fine showing,

Second Game

Weldon Myckoff, who already has to his credit a victory over Walter Johnson, did not linger on the field of battle very long after the second game started.

The Griffmen did not wallop Wyckoff's offerings very hard, but touched him up just hard enough to win. The local scoring was confined entirely to the third inning, and Eddie Foster hitters were like clay in his hands.

A double play in the first inning and slip-shod base running in the second robbed the Nationals of runs.

The Mackmen scored in the third when Boehling uncorked a wild streak, passing Barry and Schang. A scartifice and wild streak, passing and Shang, A scartifice and wild spinch," delivering a pretty single to park, Linworth hooking up with the

The Mackmen scored in the third when Boehling uncorked a wild streak, passing Barry and Schank. As sacrifice and wild peg by Foster followed, one run breezing over.

A walk to Baker, McInnes' triple to right, and Strunk's infield shash to Morgan asided two more in the second. At this stage the crowd began to show signs of peevishness, for it looked like the same old story, but as matters turned out the trio of walks just mentioned were all Boehling issued during the game, and in the final half of the fourth, the Nationals tied the score.

Milan opened the fourth with a double to right. Gandil popped to McInnes, Shanks singled, scoring Gandil. Morgan was in hot water during the walked. McBride bunted, putting Shanks on third and Yorgan on second. Henry drove the ball to far left. Oldring loat it in the sun, and when the dust cleared Shanks and Morgan had counted and Henry pulled up at third. Boehling Isaned for the final out.

"A few minutes of your time and eight dollars stand between you and comfort"

That's the gist of a conversation we heard in the fitting rooms yesterday. Here's our proposition: Give up a few minutes of your time and we will clothe you in cool, Palm Beach Linens, Mohairs, or Silks.

Fit you perfectly and start you on a comfort joy-ride during these hot days.

Eight dollars is the total "finance" involved, and where's the man who won't pay that amount for clothes comfort with real tailoring as an added attraction?

P. S .- P-B prices fit every man's purse-you can pay more if you
